The Tribune Special says President Johnson has expressed his regrets that the conspirators were not tried before civil tribunal. Order for the arrest of Ben Wood was telegraphed from Washington yesterday. Times special says among applications for pardon is that of R. E. Lee, and A. H. Stephens. Mr Stephens enters at length into the policy as mediator, and among other reasons for his course is the fact that the Tribune advocated the right of the southern people to independence, and he was led to believe it would be accomplished without war.

Herald's Washington special says intelligence from city of Mexico to the 28th ult, states the Republican Secretary Magruder encamps the state of Tamaulipas now Leon and Comandante Mejicanos is scouring north Quintana and the Republican troops are in excellent spirits. The French still hold the wives and daughters of Gen Arteaga's staff in their imprisonment, and withstanding Maximilian had order not their release. A large force is to be sent by him from Vera Cruz to Matamoras to prevent Americans from entering Mexico. From 50 to 100 patriots are shot daily under sentence of court martial in Puebla.

The following were injured: Col P W Osborn, 1st, N. Y. Cavalry, unbroken, Mrs Cheney Syracuse, internally injured, Mrs J P McAllister Buffalo, cut on the head. Mr P Kinney, L. Kinney and Emerson Kinney in back and head, Mrs Cooley severely in the head, C. C. Cox, in back. Several other more or less bruised but not fatally. No reason can be assigned for the accident.

Gold still influenced considerably by speculative operations; prevailing tendency of speculators is for a rise, there being no important interest to check the movement. This a. m. there were considerable purchases to cover recent short sales which temporarily put up the price to 145 1-4, and finally fell to 143 1-2.

The Herald's Washington special has the following:

A large number of cavalry horses have been ordered to be sent to Little Rock, to be used in remounting regiments retained in the service. The resignations of the following officers have been accepted: Brev Maj Gen Cutler, Sheply, Vandeveere, G. S Terry, and Tillson. Brig Gen McCoombs has been retired.

Mowbrays' Patent

HYDROSTATIC AIR PUMP

For Elevating Oil, Water &c.

FROM DEEP WELLS.

After fifteen months experiments in order to ascertain the best mode of pumping oil wells, the inventor has been completely successful, and now offers his improvements to oil operators.

Patent No. 45,108, Issued Nov. 22, 1865 for Air Pumps, possesses the following advantages: slow motion, and consequently durability; from eighteen to twenty strokes per minute, will deliver a full stream from two inch tubing, maintaining higher pressure than other pumps running at 80 strokes a minute.

Patent No. 45,849, Issued January 10, 1865, for Temple Adjustment, enables the operator to trump the blast pipe in the tubing, allows for expansion and permits easy withdrawal of blast tubes; lowering sand, &c., without disturbing the seed bag.

Patent No. 44,485, Issued Feb. 21, 1865, Sixteen Jet Ejector,

the latest improvement, and ensures the most economical application of the compressed air. This ejector needs only to be seen to command a preference over any other apparatus hitherto used.

The above combinations will remove in a full two inch stream all liquors from a depth of 500 and if required 2000 feet, and command a steady continuous draught from the seams, crevices or fissures of an oil well. The undersigned having been actively engaged in the oil business since 1860, will guarantee the best results in lifting Oil &c., from wells, with less steam power than by any other method whatever. An engine 6 in diameter with 12 inch stroke, running at 80 to 100 strokes, and the pump running at only 18 or 20 strokes, will in every case give satisfaction.

PATENT NO 18,925 ISSUED MARCH 21, 1865, FOR IMPROVED SEED BAG COUPLING, a neat and convenient method of applying the seed bag, where the pipes are inserted in a well. See following testimonials.

TITUSVILLE, January 17th, 1865.

To John H Watson, Esq.,
President of the Guild Oil Co

Sir

I have to report the complete success of Mowbray's Hydrostatic Pump and Ejector, as applied to our No 1 Well. After fruitless attempts to clear out the well, which has caved in below the seed bag, and previous experiments forbad lifting the tubing, the Ejector was inserted with its blast pipe inside the tubing and the pump set to work. The quantity of sand thrown, portions of old seed bag driven up, led me to suppose the well must be then nearly choked. The working barrel being attached to the tubing, and it being found impossible to pass the three quarter inch pipe through the lower end of the working barrel, it was of course impossible to make an effective sand pump that would pass through the working barrel. We were compelled, therefore, to rely entirely on the Mowbray Pump and Ejector. During two hours working yesterday evening, the tank was filled with water, sand, &c and after emptying same, about forty barrels more were thrown out, with occasional streaks of Oil. This afternoon, about 4 p. m., the water became exhausted, and a full stream of Oil was thrown out with a violence that fairly shook the tank. This continues, and we cannot be satisfied too much praise for your Pump or Ejector.

I may add our engine is of small size, scarcely equal to two horse power, the pump works thus effectively making 18 to 20 strokes per minute, and when this is compared with the dry pumps, working at 70 and 80 strokes per minute, the economy and durability of Mowbray's Pump will be evident to every one. I congratulate the Company on having thus converted, what must have been an idle well, into a paying institution.

Yours respectfully,
C. F. MORSE, Supt Guild Farm

COPY

Sir

The success of your Pump on the Guild Well No 1, induces me to order another for the Benedict Well. You will please ship same, with connection immediately. Yours &c
JOHN H WATSON.

To George M Mowbray,
Titusville, Pennsylvania

Dear Sir

I will thank you to examine our well No 3, at the Guild Farm, and if your Pump is suitable for pumping the same, please ship one immediately, and see that it is properly set to work. The sucker and pumping arrangements at No. 3 only delivers about four barrels, compared with your Pump at No 1, which throws out 100 barrels, so that it is owing to the advantage of the pump and not the deficiency of the well I wish one to be hand immediately. ATWOODS

PATENT DRILLING MACHINE,

PILE DRIVER

AND

HYDRAULIC SAND PUMP.

PRACTICAL TESTS having fully demonstrated the superiority of this machine over all others for the purpose of sinking oil wells, the undersigned is now prepared to receive orders for the same.

This machinery comprises everything requisite for the boring of oil wells, excepting the steam engine and cast iron driving pipe, (but will be furnished if desired at a reasonable price,) and dispense with the use of the Derrick, Rope, Bull wheel and other cumbrous and expensive fixtures now in use, and is so arranged, being constructed on wheels and portable, that it can be easily removed for the purpose of sinking wells in different localities.

The detritus is removed from the well by our Patent Hydraulic process, and does not require the removal of the drill from the boring. This process not only removes all the detritus in from 5 to 10 minutes, but likewise effectually clears out and opens all the small oil veins that are so often entirely closed up by the old process of sand pumping.

With this machine and a practical engineer, a well can be sunk from 400 to 600 feet within a period of from 15 to 30 days after the cast pipe has been driven.

Arrangements are being made for the construction and delivery of these machines in New York, Norwich, Newburg, N. Y., and Pittsburg, Pa.

Titusville Morning Herald.
MONDAY, JUNE 12, 1865.

The Handwriting on the Wall.

There are many indications of a storm gathering about the Emperor Napoleon's head. He may hope the roll of the thunder will pass the tempest swept; but to secure a place of shelter and yet retain his power is an undertaking which will puzzle his scheming brain. It is hard to struggle against destiny, and as he is said to be a fatalist, he may attempt to deceive himself with the notion of continued prosperity, even when conscious of the approach of difficulties from which he cannot escape. He believes in himself as thoroughly as a fatalist can, and is as selfish as man can be. Nevertheless there is such a thing as trying to do too much; but the very effort, vacillative as it is in its character, exposes him who tries it, in the hour of failure, to the unanimous aversion of all reasonable men. Napoleon's policy in Mexico, although it has not yet been fully developed, furnishes proof of the above statement. One of the ostensible reasons for the invasion of that country was the alleged refusal of the Mexicans to pay the debt they owed to French, English and Spanish merchants. Now, it has been judicially determined by high authority in England that if a foreign nation, or government refuses to allow a citizen of another country in amity with it, to sue in its courts for debts due, it is a good cause of war. But nobody ever heard before of three nations banding together to send out an armament for the purpose of constraining the citizens or subjects of another nation to pay their debts. If Mexico forbade the payment of English, French and Spanish claims by law, there might, under the decision above mentioned, be a reasonable excuse for such a proceeding. That such was not the case, however, or if it was, that it ceased to operate, is apparent from the circumstance that England and Spain withdrew from the triple alliance, having been completely deceived by the designs of the French Emperor. The Spanish fleet and the English abandoned the enterprise, and left the Emperor—to do what—to collect claims due to French subjects? No; but to proceed with his settled design of founding a Gallican Empire in the Western hemisphere. Never was there a more consummate deception, still more adroitly practised. But he got a foothold there, and in course of time placed a scion of the Austrian stock on the throne. And what now? Why, the poor dupe of the throne is more unhappy than a beggar, and the man who put him there is reaping the fruits of his wicked dissimulation.

Maximilian cannot remain in Mexico, or if he does he must be shorn of power. Some of the bold spirits of France have been still are opposing the invasion, and occasionally are heard the protestations of those men condemning the sending of fresh troops to Mexico. The English journals are raising the hue and cry. Take for example the Manchester Examiner, of June 3d, which says:

"The Emperor's conduct in Mexico was utterly unscrupulous and immoral. It was one of those high handed deeds of power which sometimes recoil upon the actors." And further—"The Emperor is responsible for the great crime which has been done in Mexico" and "come what may we should only be sanctioning that crime if we took any steps to save him from the consequences." To be sure this is a liberal journal, but still the English people have no particular desire for the success of the Emperor's undertakings. If in the end this project of his must be abandoned, that ruler will become the subject of severe and merciless ridicule, and his standing as a monarch will be seriously affected. The day of his prosperity has certainly passed. His own people are losing the respect they used to entertain for him, and were it not for a rigid censorship of the press, Paris would ring with indignant denunciations. All hail the day of Mexico's deliverance!

☞ The Knights of an ancient chivalry were wont to wear to the tournament a coat of mail. The leader of modern chivalry has adopted in lieu of this the skirt of a female.

☞ Hiram Powers is engaged upon a full length marble statue of Edward Everett, for whom he had a strong personal attachment. He does not do this in obedience to any commission, but prompted by his own feelings towards the illustrious deceased.

☞ The remains of the Hon. Geo M. Dallas, which lie in a vault in St. Peter's churchyard, Philadelphia, are to be placed in a family vault now being constructed in the same graveyard.

☞ Mr. Lincoln's age was 56; President Johnson is 57; Jeff. Davis the same; Mr. Seward, the oldest man in the Administration, is 64; Chief Justice Chase is 57; Secretary Stanton was but 34 when he was chosen Vice President; Mr. Douglas was but 48 when he died; Alexander Stevens is now 53; Slidell, 73, Mason, 62, Governor Wise, 56. The Emperor Napoleon is of the same age of President Johnson, but Jeff. Davis.

☞ The rage for relics in this country is sometimes astounding. A respectably dressed man was noticed, the other day, [illegible] a brick from the [illegible] house; and [illegible] followed [illegible] upon which [illegible]

Col. Ellsworth was killed, in Alexandria, has been cut in chips, and carried away. Thistle, at the foot of which Sickles shot Key, in Washington, has been hacked and cut by fools until it is dead. The oak tree, under which Grant talked with Pemberton, and arranged the terms of the surrender of Vicksburg, has been annihilated, and, recently, a party dug into the ground ten feet, for the roots of the historic oak. An elm tree, which Abraham Lincoln planted, stands in front of his old house in Springfield. Of course, it will be torn in pieces and destroyed, out of veneration for the man.

1 The above list contains the [illegible] with the exception of Steam Engine, Steam Gauge, Force Pump and Safety Valve, Improved Balance Valve Governor, Tubular Heater, Feed Water Heater, Dry Pipe, Petticoat Pipe, Smoke Stack, Boiler Feeder, Connecting Rod, Crosshead, Piston and Piston Rod, Valves and Valve Gear, and the brass work for the boiler. All else is supplied from the power house, including fly wheel, drums, pulleys. The face of all the fly wheels is painted for the belt.

2 The machinery is permanently attached to the boiler and the engine and boiler are made from place to place without removing or unpacking any part of it.

3 The Boiler is Locomotive which is the best in use, generating from a cubic foot of water more steam than others with the same heat and water space occupied. Less time. It is the most scientific principle and is so arranged that forming or working water is prevented, and will sustain a cold water pressure of 60 pounds to the square inch.

4 The exhaust steam is conducted directly into the smoke pipe by which all sparks from the fire are extinguished and the draft greatly increased.

5 A Heater is attached to the boiler heating the water to almost boiling point by the exhaust steam, thereby saving the engine, before it enters the boiler, at all times a saving in fuel.

6 The fire box is perfectly tight making the fire as secure as in a Stove. The water is carried all around the fire and underneath the ash pit thus increasing the fire surface and rendering it much safer as the fire cannot fall out of the fire box.

7 We put our Improved Balance Valve Governor on each Engine, and so perfect is its working that no perceptible difference can be observed in the speed of the Engine while in motion, even at most and the main band is suddenly thrown off and the throttle thrown wide open.

8 Cord wood of any kind or form may be used for fuel.

9 By making the Portable Engine our special business and building no other, and the number of any other manufacture of Portable Engines in this country, and from our experience of over fourteen years in their manufacture, we have attained a reputation which cannot be surpassed.

10 For beauty of design, neatness of workmanship, economy of fuel, durability and cheapness in price we challenge any manufacturers. Also
